SQUALL

OVERVIEW.

Built from Aluminium rather than steel, SQUALL has a lower displacement of 365t. The improved performance means slimmer hull and slightly less interior space compared with other Perinis.

SQUALL's layout features a main-deck pilothouse, bar and salon, and covered alfresco dining area aft.

Below deck, the full-beam master suite is aft, with two symmetrical twin and two double guest cabins just forward, off a central corridor. ,

The decor features modern-style walnut joinery with wenge accents.

The engine room has been set forward of amidships for optimum weight placement, effectively separating guests from the crew quarters forward.

The only Perini Navi designed by Ed Dubois, and the first yacht to feature a Rémi Tessier interior, SQUALL represents a standout opportunity within the performance sailing yacht market.
